ASX Announcement ASX: AMN

4 November 2026

APPOINTMENT OF EXPLORATION MANAGER TO ADVANCE MOUNT SQUIRES PROJECT

Agrimin Limited (ASX: AMN) (Agrimin or the Company) is pleased to advise that Garry Dick has commenced as the Company's Exploration Manager. The appointment follows Agrimin's acquisition of the Mount Squires Project from Caspin Resources Ltd (ASX: CPN) where Garry previously held the role of Exploration Manager.

Garry is a qualified geologist with over 15 years of base and precious metals exploration experience with resource companies in Australia and internationally. He specialises in large-scale, greenfield opportunities and brings four years of dedicated expertise in the West Musgrave region, specifically, at the Mount Squires Project, where he managed exploration programs from inception through to first-pass drill testing.

The appointment strengthens the Company's technical capabilities and local stakeholder relationships as it transitions to active exploration activities in the West Musgrave region of Western Australia (WA).

Agrimin Executive Director, Michael Hartley commented:

"We are pleased to appoint Garry as the Company's Exploration Manager. His deep experience and knowledge of the Mount Squires Project significantly accelerates Agrimin's ability to efficiently advance exploration activities in the West Musgrave region.

"As Exploration Manager, Garry will be responsible for the development and execution of Agrimin's exploration strategy. His immediate focus will be on identifying and prioritising prospective drill targets through the comprehensive review of the extensive, high-quality existing geophysical and geochemical database. Additionally, Garry will also be responsible for overseeing the Company's on-country exploration and 2027 drilling activities."

Agrimin Exploration Manager, Garry Dick commented "It is a thrill to be returning to Mount Squires. It is located within prime geology and I believe in the discovery potential, particularly for copper and gold. Backed with Agrimin's excellent track record of responsible stewardship, traditional land owner relations and previous success in frontier exploration, I am looking forward to an exciting exploration journey ahead."

MOUNT SQUIRES PROJECT

Background

In May 2026 the Company acquired Opis Resources Pty Ltd and became the owner of a 100% interest in the Mount Squires Project in WA (the Project). The Company has an Ancillary Agreement for Mineral Exploration on Ngaanyatjarra Lands.

The Project is located in the West Musgrave region, approximately 780km northeast of Kalgoorlie, covering an area of 480km² (Figure 1). The Project is situated approximately 10km southwest of BHP Group Ltd's (ASX: BHP) Nebo and Babel nickel-copper deposits. The prospective host stratigraphy extends into Agrimin tenure for 17km where it is truncated by the Handpump Structural Trend, a continental-scale suture which hosts soil gold anomalism along 30km of strike[1].

Next Steps

A comprehensive review of the Mount Squires Project's historical exploration database is underway, incorporating internal assessments and independent evaluations by specialist geophysical and geochemical consultants. The review is expected to refine existing prospects and identify new exploration targets, which will be prioritised for consideration in the Company's planned maiden drilling programs in 2027.

In tandem, the Company is reviewing the wider West Musgrave region for further opportunities to expand the company's exploration pipeline.
